Technical Appendix 6.1: Heritage Assets within the Inner Study Area

This Technical Appendix provides details on the heritage assets recorded in the Inner Study Area identified through desk-based assessment, together with an assessment of their heritage sensitivity.

This Technical Appendix should be read in conjunction with Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.3: Existing Conditions and Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects. The locations, and extents, of the recorded heritage assets are shown on Figure 6.1: Cultural Heritage: Inner Study Area.

Asset ID	Asset Name / Type	HER No.	Easting	Northing	Source(s)	Description	Sensitivity
1	Galdenoch Moor, findspot	MDG 551	197100	562500	HER	The HER entry records the findspot for a circular stone with cup-like indentations, of uncertain date, recovered to the northeast of Loch More. It was donated to the National Museum of Antiquities of Scotland in 1962.	Negligible
	Loch More, burnt mound	n/a	197020	561808	HER, LiDAR	The HER entry records an unreferenced possible burnt mound, situated along a drainage channel to the south of Loch More. The mound is detectable on LiDAR imagery, though it is not visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps). It measures 12 m in diameter on the northwest bank of the channel.	Medium
3	Larbrax Moor, building	n/a	197533	561116	HER, Historic maps, Aerial photography, LiDAR	A rectilinear building is recorded in the HER as detectable on LiDAR imagery within an irregular enclosed field to the northwest of Larbrax Cottages. The building is not depicted on historic maps. The structure is faintly visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) and detectable on LiDAR imagery, measuring 12 m northeast-southwest by 7 m.	Low
4	Larbrax Moor, rig and furrow	n/a	197550	561150	HER, Historic maps, Aerial photography, LiDAR	The HER entry records an unreferenced irregular cultivated field surrounded by a curvilinear bank,	Low

						depicted on the 1st edition Ordnance Survey map (1849). The 2nd edition Ordnance Survey map (1894) depicts the full extent of the U-shaped bank enclosing an area to the northwest of the Cairngarroch Plantation. The bank is also shown on later maps, including the 1972 Ordnance Survey map. The boundary bank is visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) and detectable on LiDAR imagery, though no cultivation marks are visible within the enclosure. A rectilinear building (3) lies within the centre of the enclosure.
5	Larbrax Moor, rig and furrow	n/a	197830	561400	HER, Historic maps, Aerial photography, LiDAR	An oval area of rig and furrow, orientated west-northwest to east-southeast, is recorded in the HER (unreferenced) as detectable on LiDAR imagery, to the southwest of a hut circle on Larbrax Moor (SM 4786). The rig measures 5 m in wavelength and is surrounded by a boundary bank. The area measures 80 m north-south by 40 m. The cultivation marks are not clearly visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps).	Low
6	Loch Beg, quarries	n/a	197045	562885	Historic maps, Aerial photography, LiDAR	The 1st and 2nd edition Ordnance Survey maps (1849 and 1894) depict old quarries on Larbrax Moor to the north of the Cairngarroch Plantation. Three quarry scoops are visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) and detectable on LiDAR imagery within an improved pasture field.	Negligible
7	Larbrax Moor, quarries	n/a	197545	561330	Historic maps, Aerial photography, LiDAR	The 1st and 2nd edition Ordnance Survey maps (1849 and 1894) depict old quarries to the south of Loch Beg. Four quarry scoops are visible on modern aerial photography (Google	Negligible

						Earth, Bing Maps) and detectable on LiDAR imagery within rough moorland.
8	Drumawhern, peat cutting	n/a	196130	562470	Aerial photography	An area of peat cutting was recorded from aerial photographs in advance of the consented Larbrax Wind Farm (ES 2015). They appear to have largely been removed or altered by subsequent agricultural activity and/or peat regeneration. The rectilinear cuttings are visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) to the southwest of Drumawhern, measuring up to 100 m north-south by 30 m.	Negligible
9	Loch Beg, sheepfold	n/a	196960	563135	Historic maps, Aerial photography, LiDAR	A square sheepfold is depicted on the 1909 Ordnance Survey map, abutting a field boundary to the west of Loch Beg. The sheepfold does not appear on earlier maps. Modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) shows that the area is partially truncated by woodland plantation, though the outline of the sheepfold is faintly detectable on LiDAR imagery.	Negligible
10	Drumawhern, lazy beds	n/a	196105	562470	Aerial photography, Field survey	An area of possible lazy beds was recorded during field survey in advance of the consented Larbrax Wind Farm (ES 2015), to the southwest of Drumawhern. Modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) shows that the area is improved pasture adjacent to rough moorland utilised for peat extraction (8). No surviving cultivation marks are evident.	Low
11	Loch More, clearance cairn	n/a	196784	562054	Aerial photography, Field survey	Field survey in advance of the consented Larbrax Wind Farm (ES 2015) recorded a possible clearance cairn to the south of Loch More. Nothing is visible at the location on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps).	Low

12	Salt Pans Bay, clearance cairn	n/a	196533	561848	Aerial photography, Field survey	Field survey undertaken by CFA in 2012 recorded an area of clearance to the north of Salt Pans Bay, surviving to a height of 0.5 m (Tweedie 2012). Nothing is visible at the location on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps).	Low
13	Hind Hill, clearance cairn	n/a	197281	562144	Aerial photography, Field survey	Field survey undertaken by CFA in 2012 recorded an area of clearance overgrown with reeds to the south of Hind Hill, associated with drainage of the surrounding area (Tweedie 2012). Nothing is visible at the location on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps).	Low
14	Drumawhern, shooting butts	n/a	196484	562768	Historic maps, Aerial photography, Field Survey	The 2nd edition Ordnance Survey map (1894) shows five shooting 'seats' or butts to the northeast and south of Drumawhern. By the time of the 1909 Ordnance Survey map, one of the butts (c) has been removed and another (e) is depicted to the southwest of Loch More. Field survey undertaken by CFA in 2012 found no remains of the shooting butts (Tweedie 2012). One of the shooting butt locations (f) remains visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps): a: NGR 196484, 562768; no remains visible on modern aerial photography. b: NGR 196433, 562338; truncated by a track on modern aerial photography. c: NGR 196314, 562041; no remains visible on modern aerial photography. d: NGR 196506, 562037; no remains visible on modern aerial photography. e: NGR 196624, 562018; truncated by a track on modern aerial photography. f: NGR: 196135, 562280;	Negligible visible on modern aerial photography.

15	Hind Hill, peat cuttings	n/a	197570	562080	Aerial photography, LiDAR	Two areas of extensive peat cutting are visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) and detectable on LiDAR imagery to the north and south of Hind Hill, comprising angular areas of poorly draining moorland. The areas have probably been used for peat extraction repeatedly over a long period of time, providing resources for settlements at Galdenoch and Drumwhisley.	Negligible
16	Larbrax Moor, peat cuttings	n/a	197620	561570	Aerial photography, LiDAR	An areas of peat cutting is visible on modern aerial photography (Google Earth, Bing Maps) and detectable on LiDAR imagery in the east of Larbrax Moor, comprising angular areas of poorly draining moorland. Resource extraction has probably been sustained since at least the pre-improvement period. The cuttings have since been obscured by later extraction, track construction and natural regeneration.	Negligible
17	Meikle Larbrax, rig and furrow	MDG 554	196850	561100	HER, Aerial photography, LiDAR	The HER entry records a large area of rig and furrow cultivation on a level terrace to the east of Drumwhisley farmstead (SM 4838). The rig is visible on modern aerial photography and detectable on LiDAR imagery, orientated east-west with a wavelength of 4 m. Coastal erosion and land drainage has disturbed some of the remains.	Low
SM 198 2	Fort Point, fort and salt-pans	MDG 557; MDG 548	196431	561596	HER	The monument consists of the remains of a prehistoric promontory fort and of structures associated with salt making in the 17th and 18th centuries. The fort is a promontory, enclosed on the landward side by a wall 1.9 m to 3 m thick. To the east of the fort are the remains of a	High

SM 483 8	Meikle Larbrax, farmstead 1040 m NW of	MDG 554	196715	561030	HER	The monument is a pre-improvement farmstead situated immediately above the high-water mark and below the raised beach. It comprises a rectangular building and an enclosure. The building has two compartments and measures 12.6 m by 4.4 m, within clay-bonded walls 0.5 m thick and 1.3 m high. The enclosure, which may be a second building, measures 4.3 m by 3.9 m within walls 0.8 m thick and 0.7 m high. A terraced track leads from the buildings up to the top of the raised beach where there are extensive traces of rig-and-furrow cultivation.	High
SM 478 6	Meikle Larbrax, hut circle 1000 m NNE of	MDG 559	197883	561499	HER	The monument is a hut circle of the Bronze Age or Iron Age situated on gently sloping ground on the east side of Larbrax Moor. It has been cut into the hill slope to the west-northwest. It measures 8.2 m in diameter within a wall surviving as a mound on the southeast side measuring 3 m thick and 0.3 m high.	High
SM 479 2	Meikle Larbrax, hut circles 460 m NW of	MDG 560	197301	560974	HER	The monument consists of two hut circles of the Bronze Age or Iron Age situated on recently improved land on Larbrax Moor. The northeast hut circle measures 7.3 m in diameter within a wall 1.5 m thick and 0.4 m high. The other, about 30 m to the southwest, survives as a scoop in the gentle hill slope, measuring 9 m in diameter with a low wall on the southeast side.	High

Technical Appendix 6.2: Heritage Assets within the Outer Study Area and within 5 km of the Proposed Development

Technical Appendix 6.2: Heritage Assets within the Outer Study Area and within 5 km of the Proposed Development

This Technical Appendix provides details on the heritage assets recorded in the Outer Study Area and within 5 km of the outermost turbines of the Proposed Development, together with an assessment of their heritage sensitivity and of the potential effects of the Proposed Development on their setting.

This Technical Appendix should be read in conjunction with Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.3: Existing Conditions and Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects. The locations, and extents, of the recorded heritage assets are shown on Figure 6.2: Cultural Heritage: Outer Study Area.

SM 1982	Fort Point, fort and salt-pans	Scheduled Monument	Remains of an Iron Age promontory fort and post-medieval salt pans situated on a low spur at the north end of Salt Pans Bay. Enclosed coastal setting with predominant seaward views. No intervisibility with contemporary forts along the coast. Rising topography inhibits landward views to the east. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	4	4	0.3	High	Low. Proposed Development would not alter principal views along the coast to the south and out to sea. Topographical screening would provide distance and separation from the monument. Integrity of the enclosed coastal setting would not be diminished. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	Minor	Figure 6.5
SM 1983	Glenhead of Aldouran, fort 270 m SE of	Scheduled Monument	Remains of an Iron Age fort atop a steep-side promontory on the Aldouran Burn, surrounded by woodland. Localised defensive setting with principal view to the east along the Aldouran Glen to Loch Ryan, including visibility of Mid Dinduff fort (SM 7343). Views in other directions constrained by hills to the north, west and south.	0	0	4.3	High	No impact. No visibility from location of monument or immediate locality. Reciprocal views between contemporary forts would be unaltered.	None
SM 1992	Meikle Labrax, fort	Scheduled Monument	Remains of a large Iron Age fort situated on a narrow promontory at the south end of Larbrax Bay. Enclosed coastal setting with predominant seaward views. No intervisibility with contemporary forts along the coast. Rising topography inhibits landward views to the northeast. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	4	4	1.6	High	Negligible. Proposed Development would be visible in narrow arc of view to the north-northwest. Close alignment of proposed turbines would not detract from principal views to and from the fort and the integrity of the defensive coastal setting would not be diminished. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	Minor	Figure 6.7 and 6.8
SM 2001	Tor of Craigoich, fort 1200 m NW of Leswalt	Scheduled Monument	Remains of a prehistoric hillfort situated atop a small, steep-sided hill, with far-reaching views throughout the North Rhins peninsula. Prominent defensive setting with panoramic views. Forms part of skyline on approach from the southeast. No intervisibility with contemporary forts on the coast to the west. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	4	4	4.9	High	Low. Proposed Development would slightly alter distant view to southwest and would not interrupt wider views to and from the monument. Integrity of the defensive hilltop setting and understandings of the hillfort's significance would not be appreciably diminished. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	Minor	Figure 5.2.6
SM 2018	Galdenoch Castle	Scheduled Monument	Upstanding ruins of a 16th-century, L-plan, tower house situated at the east end of the modern working farm at Meikle Galdenoch, surrounded by improved pasture and arable fields.	4	4	1.2	High	Low. Visibility of the Proposed Development would not appreciably alter views from or towards the monument or detract from appreciation of its position in the landscape. Integrity of the rural setting would be undiminished.	Minor	Figure 5.2.1, 5.2.3 and 5.2.5

SM 4792	Meikle Larbrax, hut circles 460 m NW of	Scheduled Monument	Earthwork remains of two hut circles, of Bronze Age or Iron Age date, on a low rise to the south of Larbrax Moor. Open coastal setting with views of the surrounding hills. No intervisibility with prehistoric forts along the coast. Views of the monument from across the undulating landscape not a key contributor to cultural significance. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	4	4	0.5	High	Negligible. Proposed Development would occupy a narrow arc of the view to the north-northwest from the monument. Close alignment of proposed turbines would be partially screened by woodland in foreground and would not detract from the open views attainable in other directions. Integrity of the coastal setting overlooking the surrounding agricultural land would not be adversely affected. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	Minor	Figure 6.3
SM 4811	High Auchneel, forts 1000 m SW of	Scheduled Monument	Remains of three clustered Iron Age forts situated on a low, sloping coastal promontory to the west of Rough Hill. Defensive coastal setting with views along the coast to north and south obstructed by rugged terrain. 			Open rural setting within predominantly coastal views in arc from north to southwest. Inland views overlook agricultural land immediately to south. Distant and western views screened by topography.					noticeably detract from appreciation of the position of the monument in relation to arable land, such that the integrity and character of the setting would not be adversely affected.
SM 4885	High Auchneel, fort 890 m WSW of	Scheduled Monument	Remains of an Iron Age fort situated on a low, steep-sided coastal promontory to the west of Rough Hill. Defensive coastal setting with seaward views. Visibility along the coast to north and south obstructed by rugged terrain. Rising topography screens landward views. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	4	3	2.7	High	Negligible. Visibility of Proposed Development would be largely screened by topography of coastal slopes. Proposed turbines would be visually separated in views of and from the fort, such that the integrity of the enclosed setting and understandings of its defensive sea-facing position would not be diminished. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	Minor	Figure 5.2.9
SM 4988	Mains of Cairnbrock, fort 1250 m NW of	Scheduled Monument	Remains of small Iron Age fort situated on an isolated low sea promontory, at lower elevation than adjacent coastline. Localised defensive setting on narrow promontory with open seaward views. Landward views screened by topography on all sides.	1	0	3.7	High	Negligible. No visibility from location of monument. Visibility of Proposed Development from immediate locality largely screened by intervening topography, such that it would not detract from appreciation of the defensive position. Integrity of principal views to and from the monument and its coastal setting would not be adversely affected.	Negligible
SM 5068	Knock and Maize, standing stone 190 m ESE of	Scheduled Monument	Standing stone of late Neolithic or Bronze Age date to northeast of modern B738. Low coastal setting with open aspect towards Knock Bay. Distant views to Antrim coast to west. Landward views constrained by rising topography of surrounding hills.	2	0	4.5	High	Negligible. Tip-only visibility of the Proposed Development in marginal view to the north-northwest almost entirely screened by intervening topography. Open view towards Knock Bay would be unaltered. Integrity of the coastal setting would not be adversely affected.	Negligible
SM 5118	Knock and Maize, farmstead 250 m SE of	Scheduled Monument	Footings of pre-improvement farmstead adjacent to modern B738. Localised coastal setting with open aspect towards Knock Bay. Views of surrounding rural landscape constrained by topography of surrounding hills.	2	0	4.6	High	Negligible. Tip-only visibility of the Proposed Development in marginal view to the north-northwest almost entirely screened by intervening topography. Open view towards Knock Bay would be unaltered. Integrity of the coastal setting would not be adversely affected.	Negligible
SM 5127	Killantringan, dun 740 m WNW of	Scheduled Monument	Remains of Iron Age dun atop rocky knoll at foot of escarpment at Killantringan Bay. Localised defensive setting with predominantly seaward views, also overlooking Knock Bay to north. Landward views screened by coastal topography, with limited views along coastline.	4	2	4.4	High	Negligible. Proposed Development would be visible in narrow arc of view to the north-northwest. Close alignment of proposed turbines would not detract from principal views to and from the fort and the integrity of the defensive coastal setting would not be diminished.	Minor
SM 6232	Old Lochnaw Castle	Scheduled Monument	Remains of 14th century tower on a small overgrown island within Lochnaw Loch. Localised setting encompassing the shores of Lochnaw Loch with views towards elements of the late medieval and post-medieval estate, including Lochnaw Castle and Kinsale Tower	4	4	2.8	High	Negligible; Proposed Development would be visible in the background of views to southwest, screened by intervening woodland. Views to the castle from the surrounding shore and within Lochnaw GDL would be unimpeded.	Minor to the southwest, in the absence of screening from woodland.

MDG 561	Bramble Island, crannog	HER (National)	Remains of possible crannog, comprising rectilinear stone structure close to east shore of Lochnaw Loch. In absence of woodland screening, localised setting on loch with views constrained by low elevation.	4	4	3.0	High	Negligible; Proposed development visible in backdrop of views to southwest, beyond topography of hills surrounding loch. Integrity of isolated setting would be unaffected.	Minor
MDG 567	Cairn Hill of Balgracie, cairn	HER (National)	Possible traces of a cairn atop the crest of the hill, 10 m in diameter. Prominent setting with panoramic views of undulating coastline. Views of surrounding hills to north, east and south include visibility of Cairn Hill. Intervisibility with prehistoric settlement on Larbrax Moor to west.	4	4	1.8	High	Negligible; Predominant views of surrounding hilltops would be unaffected. Visibility of Proposed Development in view to the northeast would not impact key aspects of setting. Intervisibility with hut circles to west would remain unobstructed.	Minor
MDG 13358	High Kirkland Hill, anti-aircraft battery	HER (National)	Anti-aircraft battery comprising concrete and brick emplacements on level ground below High Kirkland Hill. Defensive setting commanding views of Loch Ryan and unobstructed views of Rhins coast to west.	4	4	4.8	High	Negligible; Visibility of Proposed Development to the west would not impede appreciation of strategic position on high elevation. Views over Loch Ryan would be uninterrupted.	Minor
MDG 25572	Lochnaw Castle, castle policies	HER (National)	Policy woodlands forming 18th and 19th century designed landscape, surrounding 16th century Lochnaw Castle. Localised setting within Lochaw Castle GDL, centred on Lochnaw Loch and incorporating views of the estate from Kinsale Tower.	4	4	2.4	High	Negligible; Integrity of setting composed of inward views within limits of GDL would be unaltered by visibility of Proposed Development to the west, frequently screened by topography and woodland.	Minor
LB 13498	Lochnaw Castle	Category A Listed Building	Late 16th century tower house with 17th century L-plan range, situated on south shore of Lochnaw Loch. Part of Lochnaw Castle GDL. Localised setting with aspect overlooking loch and surrounded by woodland policies. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	4	4	2.6	High	Low; Visibility of Proposed Development to the west-southwest separated from local topographical basin and screened by woodland in foreground. Visibility between constituent elements of the post-medieval estate and designed landscape would be uninterrupted. For detailed discussion see Chapter 6: Cultural Heritage, Section 6.9: Assessment of Effects.	Minor	Figure 6.10 and Figure 5.2.7
LB 13505	Walled Garden, Lochnaw	Category A Listed Building	Early 19th century, polygonal walled garden, situated on west shore of Lochnaw Loch. Part of Lochnaw Castle GDL. Localised and secluded setting within woodland policies of GDL.	4	3	2.4	High	Negligible; Visibility of Proposed Development to the west-southwest largely screened by woodland in foreground. Integrity of setting within wider designed landscape would be unaffected.	Minor
MDG 4	Glenstockdale, findspot	HER (Regional)	Findspot of two bronze axeheads, now in Stranraer Museum. Localised rural setting within commercial forestry.	0	0	4.3	Medium	No impact; Views out from findspot not an important contributor to cultural significance.	None
MDG 487	Cairn Hill, cairn	HER (Regional)	Remains of a cairn atop crest of the hill. Panoramic views of undulating coastland from low hilltop.	4	4	2.4	Medium	Low; Visibility of Proposed Development in view along the coast to the north would not significantly obstruct integrity of wider views.	Minor

MDG 493	Lashendarroch Hill, enclosure	HER (Regional)	Small circular ditched enclosure within an agricultural field overlooking Knock Bay. Localised coastal setting with south-facing views.	2	0	3.6	Medium	Negligible; Limited visibility of Proposed Development largely screened by rising topography to the north. Principal south-facing views uninterrupted and integrity of setting retained.	Negligible
MDG 497	Portslogan, enclosure	HER (Regional)	Remains of a possible oval enclosure within an agricultural field to north of Knock Bay. Localised coastal setting with principally south-facing views towards Knock Bay.	1	0	3.2	Medium	Negligible; Tip-only visibility of the Proposed Development in marginal view to the north-northwest almost entirely screened by intervening topography. Integrity of the coastal setting would not be adversely affected.	Negligible
MDG 498	Rough Cairn Hill, enclosure	HER (Regional)	Remains of a small, oval ditched enclosure within an agricultural field atop the hill. Panoramic views of undulating coastline.	4	4	2.8	Medium	Low; Visibility of Proposed Development in view along the coast to the north would not significantly obstruct integrity of panoramic views. Ability to appreciate prominence within wider setting would be unaltered.	Minor
MDG 500	Glaik, cross-incised stone	HER (Regional)	Findspot of cross-incised stone of 11th or 12th century date, within agricultural field at base of Glaik Hill. Now in Stranraer Museum. Localised rural setting.	0	0	2.9	Medium	No impact; No visibility from location of monument or immediate locality.	None
MDG 522	Salt Pan Bay, salt works	HER (Regional)	Remains of post-medieval salt works, comprising rectangular stone-walled structure. Localised coastal setting with principally seaward views.	0	0	4.7	Medium	No impact; No visibility from location of monument or immediate locality.	None
